

Identities and boundaries, not a service architecture. No authoritative fact required for recovery or publication exists only in a worker; every external effect crosses a named boundary.